MICHAEL L. HANKS, Ph.D., P.E.
SENIOR MANAGING CONSULTANT

mlhanks@engsys.com

Dr. Michael L. Hanks has a Ph.D. in chemical engineering and is a Senior Managing Consultant for Engineering Systems Inc. (ESi). Dr. Hanks investigates industrial and residential fires and explosions, chemical process incidents, manufacturing process incidents, and hazardous materials release and exposure incidents. He is a NAFI certified fire and explosion investigator. He investigates failures caused by unexpected or uncontrolled chemical reactions and issues due to incompatible materials, analyzes chemicals to identify unknown materials or contaminants, and evaluates compliance with OSHA regulations for chemical hazard communication and general industry safety practices. Dr. Hanks managed a corporate laboratory that performed chemical analysis and product-performance testing and led the materials development function that was responsible for developing and evaluating coatings and adhesives, thermoplastic compounds, and thermoplastic elastomers. He has failure analysis experience with polyurethanes, polyolefins, PVC, EDPM rubber compounds, and other polymers.

Areas of Specialization

Fire and Explosion Investigations
Chemical Reactions
Hazardous Materials
OSHA General Industry Safety Regulations
Intellectual Property
Composites
Project Management
Chemical and Manufacturing Processes
Testing and Chemical Analysis
Dust Explosions
Hydraulic Hose Failures
Polymers and Polymer Processing
Product and Process Development
Paints, Coatings, and Adhesives

Education

Ph.D., Chemical Engineering, Carnegie Mellon University, 1991
M.S., Chemical Engineering, Brigham Young University, 1988
B.S., Chemical Engineering, Brigham Young University, 1986

Licensed Professional Engineer (P.E.)
